Reds Strike Sharp Blows In Center

Tokyo, Wednesday (AP) — Chinese and North Korean Communist troops struck two sharp blows in Central Korea today and the stepped-up Red activity indicated the long-awaited Communist push might be imminent.

South Korean troops withdrew from Inje, strategic road center four miles north of the 38th parallel, under Communist pressure. Soon afterward the Reds moved into the town.

Field dispatches described the new Red thrusts as "heavy probing attacks." They were accompanied by the usual whistle and bugle-blowing that mark the customary Chinese attack.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky at U.S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese struck at Allied positions east of Chunchon at 1:30 a.m. They laid down raking rifle and automatic weapons fire until United Nations forces withdrew.

Then Allied big guns roared and dispersed the Red attackers with heavy losses forty minutes after the fight began.

Farther east North Koreans warmed over an Allied observation southwest of Inje.

There were few details available on abandonment of Inje itself. The town was re-taken last week by South Korean troops as the Communists built up heavy concentrations of men and supplies to the north.

An Eighth Army briefing officer announced that following the South Korean withdrawal, Communist trucks filled with soldiers were observed moving into the town late into the night. Red artillery opened up in a three-hour barrage against South Koreans still northeast of the town.

The Communists who have been preparing a new major spring drive since early May apparently shifted the center of their attack force from the western front north of Seoul to the Chunchon area in the center of the Peninsula.

The briefing officer said that "the enemy attitude has changed from relatively light to strong resistance against friendly patrols." He estimated 2,850 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

Bad weather proved a boon to the Reds and a hindrance to the Allied air arm. Heavy rain and low clouds limited Fifth Air Force planes to only 15 sorties after dark. It made a total of only 178 sorties for the day.

One enemy plane followed a C-47 transport plane as it dropped flares north of the frontlines to illuminate Communist supply movements but did not attack. It was the only sign of Red air activity Tuesday, although the Reds are known to have strong air support standing by on Manchurian airfields.

U. S. Denies Peace Rumors

Washington (AP) — Government authorities said yesterday there have been no peace feelers from the Chinese Communists.

The high command's hope is to force the Reds to seek peace eventually by inflicting heavy losses on them, but so far the enemy has shown no slackening in his determination to throw U. N. forces out of Korea.

A flurry of peace feeler rumors had gone the rounds at the capitol, evidently set off by misunderstanding of Defense Secretary Marshall's testimony at the MacArthur hearing. This prompted questions to fully informed officials as to just what the situation is and how bright are the prospects for an early peace.

The specific answer was that all the evidence the American government can get indicates that the Reds are still determined to try to expel the U. N. forces from Korea.

Corpmen Keeping Death Rate Down

Philadelphia (AP) — The Army Medical Corps in the Korean conflict has maintained the lowest death rate from war casualties ever recorded in military hospitals, Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong said yesterday.

General Armstrong, deputy surgeon general of the U. S. Army, said "the evacuation hospital in Pusan hospitalized more casualties in the earlier phases of war than any other hospital. When it was converted to a station hospital on Dec. 18, 1950, the unit had admitted 31,612 patients, of whom only 114 or 36/100ths of one per cent died of battle injuries."

The general attributed this success to the ability of the Army to take surgeons so far forward that they can operate upon wounded men as soon as possible after injury.

Ways-Means Committee Votes Half-Cent Hike In Gas Tax, Slashes Levy On Telegrams

Washington (AP) — Prospective tax increases mounted above $6,500,000 yesterday as the House Ways and Means committee voted to raise the Federal levy on gasoline from 1 1/2 to 2 cents a gallon.

The half-cent increase is expected to bring in an additional $210,000,000 annually, if approved by House and Senate. The Treasury has asked that the rate be raised to 3 cents. The committee bogged at the increase, rejecting it tentatively Monday only to approve it yesterday.

Johnson Urges More Action By Congress

Philadelphia (AP) — Contending that the 82nd Congress has accomplished "very little" to date, the national chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report last night urged immediate congressional action on reorganization laws.

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, declared the 82nd Congress has enacted only 28 public laws during the first four months of its existence.

"Today, as never before, efficient government is essential to national strength and freedom," Dr. Johnson said. "We can't be sure of the victory in our struggle against tyranny abroad unless we practice efficiency and economy at home."

Dr. Johnson asserted that the 81st Congress in its first year passed 440 public laws, adding:

"At its present rate of progress the 82nd Congress will flunk at its job with a grade of about 20 per cent."

Temple's president said that 50 per cent of the recommendations of the bipartisan Hoover Commission for Federal Reorganization were adopted by the 81st Congress saving taxpayers $2,000,000,000 annually.

"If fully enacted," Dr. Johnson said, "The commission's report would result in total savings of $5,500,000,000 or $220 a year per average American family."

Mendelssohn Dies During Concert

Baltimore (AP) — Felix Robert Mendelssohn, concert cellist and great grand nephew of the famous composer, fell dead last night while giving a concert at the Cadogan hall.

He was playing Dohnanyi's concert piece in D major, which he played in its world premier in Berlin in 1918.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony orchestra.

Brothers Who Cherish American Citizenship Expected To Reject $250,000 British Estate

Akron, O. (AP) — Salesman James N. Gape can have an English estate worth nearly $250,000 if he wants it. But, while Gape concedes he is "by no means a rich man," he isn't jumping at the chance.

His wife can't make up her mind about it either. And, as for his brother—Kenneth Gape of Detroit, who could have the estate if James doesn't take it; well, Kenneth says: "I don't want it and I don't think my brother does either."

The catch in the inheritance is that the recipient must live in England the rest of his life.

"Why, England," said Kenneth, "isn't a fit place to live and raise a family. The Socialites have ruined it. I don't want my children to grow up where there's no incentive for advancement, and where they can have only one egg a week."

Judge Bars Execution Of Almeida

Philadelphia (AP) — A U.S. District court judge yesterday barred execution of a convicted police slayer.

Judge George A. Welsh issued a writ of habeas corpus forbidding the Commonwealth to electrocute David Almeida for the murder of Patrolman Cecil Ingling. The judge held Almeida's trial and conviction "null and void."

James W. Tracey, assistant district attorney, immediately said the state would appeal the writ to the circuit court of appeals. If Almeida should win there, the State will carry the case to the U.S. Supreme court.

Tracey said that failure in the high court would result in bringing Almeida to trial again.

"To let him go would be outrageous," he said.

The writ, if sustained by the higher Federal courts, would leave the State only two alternatives—bring the man to trial again or leave him go free.

Welsh said his ruling was based on this finding:

That the State deliberately suppressed evidence that it was not a bullet fired by Almeida that killed Ingling, but a shot fired by another policeman, during an attempt to halt a holdup.

The judge pointed out that if this evidence had been allowed to come before the jury, Almeida still would have been convicted of first degree murder, but the penalty might have been life imprisonment instead of death.

Welsh reprimanded the district attorney's office for suppressing the evidence. The prosecutor, Ephraim Lipschutz, is now dead.

Ingling was killed in January, 1947. Almeida was convicted about a year later. Since then his sentence of execution has been stayed repeatedly while appeals were taken to State and Federal courts. Twice, counsel for Almeida appealed to the U.S. Supreme court but the land's highest court refused to review the appeal.

Investigation Of Communist Cell Now In Progress

Portsmouth, N. H. (AP) — Navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are investigating American Legion assertions that a Communist cell, capable of sabotage, is operating at the Portsmouth naval submarine shipyard.

The Navy made this announcement at Boston yesterday. At the same time Senator Bridges (R-NH) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities committee to inquire into the charges.

The charge of Communist activity was voiced by Frank Sawyer, adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion, who said "we are convinced that a sufficient amount of evidence exists to warrant a thorough investigation."

He added that the Legion had passed on its findings to Senator Bridges after investigating since October. The Maine American Legion joined its New Hampshire brothers in recommending an inquiry.

Foley Assails House Action

Washington (AP) — Housing Administrator Raymond Foley yesterday assailed the "virtual elimination" of public housing, by House action, as a "bitter blow" to low-income defense workers, service men and veterans.

The House last week amended the housing act to permit only 5,000 new subsidized dwellings in the year starting July 1—as against 135,000 originally approved and 75,000 under the post-Korea curtailment.

Foley said in a statement that the House decision, if upheld by the Senate, will hit nearly 300 cities which had contracted with the government for housing on which defense workers and veterans would have first claim.

Defends British Policy

New York (AP) — Sir Gladwyn Jebb defended British Far East policy yesterday against American criticism. He pledged that despite differences, "Great Britain is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Army Inducts Seven Men From County

Seven Monroe county men were inducted into the U. S. armed forces yesterday by Local Draft Board No. 105.

Those sent to Wilkes-Barre as part of the draft's May contingent were Kenneth F. Moyer, Dale E. Johnson, Harry W. Armitage, all of Stroudsburg; Harold J. Rodenbaugh, East Stroudsburg; Ronald D. Landi, Cresco; Glenmore H. Newhart Jr., Pocono Summit, and Stanley Dudas, Shawnee-on-Delaware.

France Asks Wide Embargo On Red China

United Nations, N. Y. (AP) — France moved yesterday to broaden the projected world wide United Nations embargo against war materials for Communist China to include transportation materials, such as locomotives and steel rails.

French Delegate Francis La Coste tossed in the proposal. One aim apparently is to prevent the shipment of steel rails and other supplies from West Germany to Peiping.

These supplies would be wrapped up in the embargo on arms, ammunition, war materials and supplies for making war materials which was approved Monday by an 11-0 vote of a U. N. Sanctions committee.

Britain, Australia, Venezuela and the United States agreed to co-sponsor the French amendment to the original embargo resolution.

HST's Sister Speeding In Federal Car

Washington (AP) — Rep. Keating (R-NY) told the House yesterday a government limousine, bearing President Truman's sister, was caught speeding 70 to 75 miles an hour through Hopewell, N.Y.

Keating said the driver, whom he identified as Grady A. Stowe, was fined $20. He said Stowe listed his occupation as a special agent assigned to guard a member of the President's family.

"Investigation then developed," Keating said, "that sure enough, it was the President's sister traveling around in western New York in a government-owned limousine together with two Secret Service agents assigned to drive and guard her."

"It further developed that the accused was from Grand View, Mo., the home town of the President's sister, and apparently a friend of the Trumans who had been placed on the Federal payroll for this unusual assignment."

Keating did not mention the President's sister by name but there is only one sister—Miss Mary Jane Truman.

State Senate Takes Action On Tax Bill

Harrisburg (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine's tax program, stripped of his disputed tax bill, passed the Senate yesterday.

A unanimous vote renewed $400,000,000 in present taxes and added another $44,000,000 to the tax bill of corporations. The program had been approved by the House but most of the bills went back there for action on Senate amendments.

But confusion continued to reign in both House and Senate on filling the gap created by rejection Monday of the administration's plan for a one-half of one per cent personal income levy by Senate Republicans.

Rep. Charles C. Smith, Republican floor leader, said the House was sticking by its guns on the $119,000,000 income tax which passed the lower branch last month—but only after a second vote.

In the Senate, Chairman T. Newell Wood (R-Luzerne) of the Finance committee indicated his unit had no immediate plans for a tax plan to replace the income levy.

Wood said after a conference of GOP assembly leaders with Fine that no decision was reached as to the administration's immediate course on tax legislation.

"We still have the labor, welfare and education programs to be taken care of," Wood told newsmen. "But as far as I can see they will have to be greatly altered in view of the present situation."

"Maybe," Wood added, "these eleven senators will introduce a program of their own, now that they have voted down the income tax."

He referred to a Senate GOP bloc who refused to support the income levy at a Republican caucus Monday, forcing the administration to return the measure to Wood's Finance committee.

Senate passage of the bulk of Fine's tax program will make permanent all of the cent a pint beer tax, half of which is now temporary; all of the four-cent a pack cigarette tax, half of which is now temporary, and the 10 per cent liquor tax, all of which is now temporary.

In addition, the four per cent corporate net income tax goes up to five per cent to raise $44,000,000 but continues on a temporary two-year basis.

Six mills of the gross receipts tax on public utilities also was continued for another two years on a temporary basis.

The program calls for postponing for another two years the manufacturers' exemption from the five-mill capital stock tax, saving an estimated $40,000,000 in State refunds.

Absent from Fine's tax plans is the cent a bottle soft drinks tax which is due to expire automatically at the end of the month. It brought in $29,000,000 in the past two years.

General Quizzed Regarding Views Before Dismissal

Washington (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley yesterday refused to tell senators what was said at the White House meeting April 6 when President Truman and his advisers first discussed the possibility of firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The refusal immediately brought talk of possible contempt action to test Bradley's right to refuse, but there was no real indication such action would be taken.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff declared: "If I have to publicize my recommendations and my discussions, my value as (a presidential) adviser has been ruined."

He said he could not reveal what was said at the meeting without the permission of President Truman himself. Others present were Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, and Presidential adviser W. Averell Harriman.

Wilson Calls For Unity Of Americans

Washington (AP) — Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson pleaded for American unity yesterday with a jab at the foolishness on Capitol Hill where some of our leading generals are on the pay.

Addressing 1,000 industrialists at the 1951 industry-armed forces conference, Wilson declared that American squabbling over military and foreign policy "must certainly be wonderful music to the ears of the Russians."

But he told the industry group: "What you people are doing is not music to Russian ears."

Wilson, who took over as mobilization chief five months ago, said he now sees prospects that the task of mobilizing this country's resources for defense isn't going to be "as long a job as I had thought—if we have some unity."

Wilson predicted that the tempo of the multi-billion-dollar rearmament program will mean increasing business dislocation in the last six months of this year and early next year.

Defense Act Threatened

Washington (AP) — The top men of economic mobilization teamed up yesterday in urgent pleas for wider emergency powers. But the answer from a key senator was that they may have to give up some authority they already have if they are to save anything at all.

After a day of hearings on the proposal to extend and broaden the defense production act, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking committee told Senate Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle:

"I want to warn the administration it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all. I don't know if there is going to be any extension."

DiSalle came back with the statement that he has "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress than to think they would not pass" the extension for the emergency law, now due to expire June 30.

The price chief, protesting against any such step by Congress, did agree to bring the committee an estimate of the possible effects if the lawmakers should require relaxation of some of the price controls on farm products.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) sought to get the information from Bradley during yesterday's session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees, which are inquiring into Asian policy and MacArthur's ouster.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the inquiry group upheld Bradley's position but he said the committee members have "a very effective and thorough way" of deciding the matter if they desire.

"They can overrule the enair," Russell said, "and decide General Bradley in contempt and let the courts pass on the issue once and for all."

Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) said: "I do think we might as well face the fact that what we face is the question of citation of contempt." But he said the question should not be pushed at this time because he is convinced the procedure never results in getting the desired information.

This issue exploded after Bradley told senators that MacArthur's Korean war plans "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

With this sweeping declaration, the general rejected the MacArthur program for stronger measures against Red China. He said such a move would "increase the risk of global war," at a time when the United States is not ready for a showdown with Russia.

Then Bradley lined up with Secretary of Defense Marshall in holding out hope that the Chinese Reds can be forced into peace terms without the risk of spreading the war.

"We think," he said, "that if we can punish the Chinese severely enough in Korea then we will be in a position, and they will be in an attitude where some kind of an agreement may be reached and a settlement made."

Senator Wiley brought up the question of the top-level meeting called to discuss the MacArthur situation.

"All right," Wiley said, "tell us what was said."

Bradley replied: "Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

Wiley turned to Russell and asked if Bradley should be required to answer.

After a lengthy discussion, Russell upheld Bradley by ruling "any matter that transpired in the private conversation between the President and the chief of staff (Bradley) can be protected by the witness if he so desires."

Johnson Urged To Raise Wage Limit

Washington (AP) — Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said yesterday that company managements have joined with labor groups in 1,500 requests to exceed the 10 per cent limit on wage increases. "Some of the requests go as high as 27 cents an hour," Johnston said. "If any appreciable number are granted in anything like such amounts, you have no wage stabilization in America."

Paul Dellaria, president of the board, presided at the meeting when the resignations of Miss Joyce Rutt as treasurer and William V. Nixon as secretary because of the press of other duties were accepted. Mr. Dellaria will confer with the executive committee in regard to their successors.

An invitation from the Children's Aid society to attend their annual meeting on May 22 at 8 p.m. at the YMCA was read, and the secretary was instructed to send cards to board members informing them of the meeting which is to be devoted to a discussion of the family case work service.

A Repudiated Tax

Rejection of Gov. John S. Fine's income tax bill by Republican Senate caucus reflects the tremendous opposition the soak-the-people tax has engendered throughout the entire Commonwealth.

It also demonstrates that the people are thoroughly fed up with taxes and more taxes, whatever they may be. Government leaders must soon begin to realize that taxes, whatever their form, have just about reached the law of diminishing returns.

It is time for the government, especially the Pennsylvania administration, to think about economy. The four-hour "hearing" on the Fine tax plan was nothing more than a farce. No one man or group of men can digest a fiscal program with the slightest regard for economy in four hours.

Latest set-back for the income tax measure must be taken with a heavy dose of caution. Very few in Harrisburg are thinking in terms of economy. They are thinking in terms of taxes.

We must be alert and ready to hammer away against that other vicious form of taxation—the Sales Tax. It may be the next alternative, if the income tax proposal is, in fact, killed.

Even more obnoxious than an income tax, the Sales Tax must be killed before it is proposed. It would be well if you advised Senator Montgomery F. Crowe you are pleased with his stand against the income tax deal, while making it absolutely clear he must prevent a Sales Tax.

He has made one proposal for economy. It would be well if Senator Crowe pushed his plan at this strategic moment. Tell him you are for ACTION on economy.

Pedestrian At Fault

A New Jersey Supreme Court decision proves pretty conclusively that there is little truth left in the previously-accepted thesis that the pedestrian always has the right of way. That is true only when he is not doing something wrong.

A pedestrian sued for $25,000 a motorist whose car had struck him in Newark. Learning that the pedestrian was crossing the street against a red light in a rainstorm, the judge ruled that not only was he not entitled to damages, but that he should pay to have the motorist's car repaired. It will cost him $40.

The verdict should be posted wherever pedestrians habitually and foolishly bet their lives against the presumed courtesy and alertness of motorists.

Hold The Meat Line

The gentleman who facetiously hoped that bicarbonate might be built directly into beef loaf is getting a measure of cheer out of the edict from the Office of Price Stabilization reducing prices on some cuts of meat.

Some chuck steaks and pot roasts are reduced in price as much as 12 cents a pound, and rump roasts by five and six cents.

The housewife and the wage earner are cheering for the OPS to hold the price line. In World War Two days price cuts didn't always bring results that had been sought. Cattle raisers didn't send such large volumes of beef to the processors as formerly. Black and gray markets multiplied. Other difficulties arose.

Price Stabilization Director DiSalle insists that the average cattle grower can take the progressive price cuts ordered and still realize profits 25 per cent above parity. We hope he is right. We hope the cattle raiser, the processor, the retailer accept his program with determination to make it work. Otherwise, there will be more and more beef loaf and buyers' strikes, too many of them from sheer necessity.

You're Telling Me

In protest of dictatorial powers assumed by President Arnulfo Arias, Panama's medical profession went out on strike. Seems like he isn't exactly what the doctors ordered.

Could be the medicos might have a prescription for Panama's political ills.

A motorman was fined and juggled for being stiff while piloting his streetcar. Off his trolley?

With five-starred Generals MacArthur and Marshall testifying before that Senate hearing the man at the next desk wonders if it shouldn't be called a star chamber session.

There's a girl Communist leader in China by name of Ting Ling. Sounds like a wrong number.

Women age more quickly than men, says a judge. Maybe so, but they sure can keep it a secret!

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Arthur Brisbane once quoted his rival editor, Herbert Bayard Swope, in a Sunday article. Swope promptly phoned to say, "I remember quoting that line to you, Arthur, but the line was originally spoken by Count Metternich." "Swope," said Brisbane, "I always attribute a story to the last man who tells it to me—and you're the first one I've credited with a good line who ever objected."

Asked for an autobiographical note, America's foremost living humorist, James Thurber, obliged with the following: "I expect to reach seventy-five, since the care I take of my magnificent body is well known—and my one-eighth vision happily obscures all and unguisly, leaving only the vivid and the radiant, some of whom are my friends and neighbors. My pleasures are clean and simple. I like to sit around at night, holding untenable positions against logical and expert assault, listening to ball games on the radio, and romping with my wife and daughter and our female French poodle who is nine, but doesn't look a day over five. She thinks she is a human being and not a dog, and no one is allowed to let her look into a mirror. Just like you, I expect to be blown up; but hope that I won't be."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Master showman Cecil B. DeMille is staging a train wreck so real-looking it scares you.

Six life-size cars lie smashed and sprawled at crazy angles along a movie set fully a block long. They're circus cars. This is the big climactic scene in DeMille's big-top epic, "The Greatest Show on Earth." It's the film's visual shocker comparable to Vic Mature pushing the temple down on screaming hundreds in "Samson and Delilah."

Villain Lyle Bettger has put a flare on the track at night and stopped the train's first section to rob it. Then the second section has crashed into the first—a feat done in secret with miniatures and trick photography.

Circus Boss Charlton Heston lies pinned under bars ripped from an animal cage. Steam hisses from the shattered car behind him. The vapor is reddened by a floodlight to indicate, on the color film, that there is fire, too. Animal Trainer Melvyn Frank, hidden far down in the cage, presses an air jet. It scares a black panther into leaping out across Heston. Four takes are necessary. On one of them, the cat drags its long tail across Heston's upper lip.

Between scenes, Heston told me that two of the shattered aluminum cars are real ones from an actual railroad wreck. "Eight people killed in that car," he said, indicating the sliced coach behind him in the scene. He showed how turnbuckles are used to screw the wreckage down tight against him so he won't have to fake his discomfort.

Watching the activity is Jimmy Stewart, who plays a clown in the picture. Today he isn't working; just visiting. He describes his clown character as big and jolly, with a painted grin and bald, pointed head. Will fans recognize him? "Yes," he says, "at least when I take the nose and wig off."

Jimmy guesses that as a kid in Indiana, Pa., he never missed a circus. "The whole town turned out at 4:30 in the morning to see the train unloaded. I'd do odd jobs—carry stakes, hold ropes. For that I'd get to carry a banner in the parade."

The grim business goes on. Gloria Grahame is leading an elephant in. It's to lift the wreckage off Heston. Hard-driving DeMille knows exactly what he wants. "You can get more pain into your voice," he tells the pained man. You're thankful this is only a movie.

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Franklin D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-Shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection, which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies, its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-Shek) is . . . Because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to Communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and Communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—I it is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China."

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy."

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century."

"Q—Well, let us ask the direct question: 'What would you have done—what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945—what would you have done?'"

"A—I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of Communism."

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose."

"Q—For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration."

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?"

"A—I did not catch the question."

"Q—Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Communists and Nationalists—have gotten them together?"

"A—Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix."

"Q—That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?"

"A—It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The President's New Piano

The piano industry gave a piano to President Truman the other day, making him the first President in history with a spare. Harry smiled and seemed very happy, but we can't think of anything that he really needs less in the present harassing moment. If the idea was that it would soothe the President and settle his nerves it came a little late and should obviously have arrived before the MacArthur recall. Still it must be some satisfaction for him to know that he has the piano makers of America behind him in the present situation.

Perhaps, after all, the gift of a piano to President Truman may not be a minor matter, a mere expression of good will. It could be of profound importance to the fate of the world. History may show that it played a part in saving America in a critical hour. Harry has been under a great strain and is clearly taut, hair-triggered and impulsive in a day that calls for poise and coolness. This new and super piano may give him greatly needed relaxation. Music hath charms to soothe the savage pen, as the saying goes.

Let's take an average day with Harry and see how a few appropriate tunes on the piano could help:

7 A.M.—He wakes up, calls for the morning paper and reads a stinging editorial by an opposition newspaper. He goes to the piano and plays "You're Driving Me Crazy," "You Gotta Stop Kickin' My Dawg Around," "Stormy Weather" and "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Had."

7:30—Observes newspaper criticisms of failure to end Ambassador O'Dwyer, and renders "Just Plain Bill."

7:45—Studies testimony of Generals Marshall, Bradley and others before Senate probes: "Doin' What Comes Natchurally," "I'll Be True To You in My Fashion," "Ask Me No Questions," and the "Douglas Boogie."

8:30—Gets news that General MacArthur is to go on a speaking tour: "Blow the Man Down," "I'll See You in My Dreams," "Stop! Stop! You're Breakin' My Heart," "The Trouble With Me Is You," and "Don't Blame Me."

9 A.M.—Hears that Mike DiSalle has issued another order causing wide criticism: "He's Too Fat For Me."

9:30—Looks at schedule and receives another review of the general tax situation is necessary: "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," "I Can't Do That Sum," "Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl," and "Moanin' Low."

10 A.M.—Hears Republicans are planning another blast at Acheson: "Button Up Your Overcoat, You Belong To Me," "People Will Say We're in Love."

10:30—Reads prediction by GOP leaders that he can't possibly win another term: "I'll Get By," "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," "I Want What I Want When I Want It," and "Across The Wide Missouri."

11 A.M.—Press Conference: "I Need Sympathy," "Don't Fence Me In," "Ain't Misbehavin'."

Noon—Has talk with United Nations delegates: "Dancing Queen to Cheek," "I Don't Want To Set the World on Fire," "Brother Can You Spare A Dime?"

2 P.M.—Gets early afternoon paper and reads speeches by Stassen and Taft on needs of the day: "I Can Do Anything Better Than You Can," "Thanks over next election: 'There's Yes, Yes in Your Eyes.'"

2:30—Dean Acheson calls in a mood of depression over continuing attacks: "Button Up Your Overcoat," "Because You're You," "Among My Souvenirs," and "Am I Wastin' My Time on You?"

3:30—Ghost writers arrive to discuss a speech: "Me and My Shadow."

3:45—Reads another Gromyko attack: "Who's Afraid of The Big Bad Wolf?"

4 P.M.—Hears chairman of GOP has predicted Republican landslide in 1952: "The Gentleman Is a Dope," and "It Ain't Necessarily So."

4:15—Secretary advises a nap: "Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day."

4:30—Takes nap. Somebody sneaks in from the MacArthur camp and plays "I Love a Parade," and "Old Soldiers Never Die," waking him up violently and spoiling day.

The British Government has abandoned the idea of a state-operated chicken project into which it has poured a vast sum, getting few eggs in return. It makes a hen-litery to know that the Labor Government is behind it. The whole thing raises the question "When does a chicken cross a Socialist?"

B.T.K. writes in to suggest that possibly the gift of a piano to Mr. Truman was due to a misinterpretation of his recent views that in the present crisis we must all "keep hammering away."

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington—A passel of Communists and their comrades, who are too bashful to admit party membership in front of Congressional committees, have been avoiding jail regularly lately by hiding under the Constitution.

Federal judges in Washington, D.C., started the ball rolling by accepting the plea from party hirlings that to admit Communist membership and association is self-incriminating. One recent recalcitrant, however, who used the plea in refusing to reveal the date of his birth, didn't get away with it. He has appealed his conviction, of course, and so he isn't on his way to jail yet.

A Communist, by court edict, is engaged in illegal activities—attempting to overthrow the government by force and violence. That is against the law. And because it is against the law the courts hold that it would be self-incrimination if a witness is forced to answer questions about his Communist activities or associations.

By contrast Dr. Edward A. Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, Incorporated, stands convicted of three counts of contempt of Congress. Whatever else Dr. Rumely does, he is admittedly engaged in nothing illegal. He does not advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence. Indeed, he advocates upholding the Constitution of the United States with the last breath in our bodies.

But because of the very legality and legitimacy of his operations, the courts hold that there is nothing incriminating about those associations and that Rumely must answer all questions about them. The "self-incrimination" escape available to Communists, because they are engaged in illegal activities, is forbidden to Rumely and the rest of us because of the very legality and legitimacy of the things we are doing.

Does that make sense?

I hold no brief for Dr. Rumely. He is old enough to take care of himself. However, his case points out clearly the need for a new definition of congressional contempt—one that we will not get from Federal judges, but one that comes from Congress itself. And there are no current activities in Congress indicating progress in this direction.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities has lost a lot of its punch since Federal judges starting freeing bashful Reds. It ought to get busy exploring the legal aspects of such pleas, or at least needing the Department of Justice into rounding up the Reds who advocate a new government for us by the use of force and violence.

In its recent investigation of Communists in Hollywood, House Red hunters ran into a somewhat different breed of cats. Sterling Hayden, the actor, set the pace by coming clean and naming names. However, a number of others tagged as party members or fellow travelers, were willing to go only part of the way: They confessed their own sins, but for the life of them couldn't recall a single other soul in the same party cell.

John Garfield, an actor, put on the strangest performance. He said he wouldn't have known a Communist if he saw one until late 1947 or 1948, which is either an indication of great devotion to his career or a sign of fading capacities of seeing and hearing. But there are witnesses on hand who will soon refresh Garfield's memory.

According to data available in House Committee files, Garfield is listed one way or another in connection with the following organizations, most of which have been designated as Communist controlled:

American Committee for Yugoslav Relief; American League for Peace and Democracy; China

Memos to the Editors

The Sunday N. Y. Times front-page story by Robert Plumb titled: "Curbs on Medical Research in Fund Grants Irk Scientists."

The article is a report on questionnaires sent to medical school deans. They are reported as being "agin" research grants from cancer and other disease groups unless they receive a blank check to spend the money over a 3 to 5-year period for any kind of medical research without annual accountability as to expenditures.

Answer: The Runyon Committee receives voluntary contributions to seek the cause and cure of cancer from Mr. and Mrs. United States . . . As treasurer of the fund I am obligated to insure these contributions are used only for cancer research and not for the general support of medical schools and patient care . . . For three years Federal aid to Medical Schools (Senate Bill S-337) has been delayed by controversy between the points of view of the government, the medical deans, and the American Medical Ass'n.

Cancer cannot wait . . . Runyon funds go to any cancer research worker who can establish his scientific capacity—even to Russia—if Russia will drop the Iron Curtain in the fight against Cancer . . . But No Blank Checks, dearie.

From the front pages: "At 3:30 yesterday afternoon (Monday, May 14) on the 3rd floor of Presbyterian Hospital (Medical Center), the Howard V. Long X-ray Therapy Rotation Unit was dedicated. The new machine, which is used in conjunction with a 250,000 volt X-ray therapy unit, rotates patients with deep seated tumors in such a way as to concentrate a killing dose of X-ray energy on the tumor while causing minimum ill effect upon the non-tumorous tissues and skin. The Runyon Fund supplied the money to construct the unit."

The Dade County (Fla.) Cancer Group will officially open July 3 . . . Some of the most distinguished researchers in the world will staff it . . . In its chemistry dept will be one of its co-discoverers of aureomycin . . . Medical circles expect one of the world's great research centers will develop in Fla. . . This project got a big push (a few years ago) by a $75,000 grant from The Runyon Fund to the Univ. of Miami.

Dr. Eugene E. Clifton of Yale Univ. School of Medicine has submitted a paper which the American Journal of Physiology has accepted for publication. The title: "The Control of Proteolytic Activity in Serum: Effect of Soy Bean Inhibitor in Vivo in the Mouse."

Dr. Clifton's Girl Friday memo: "The work in preparation for this paper was made possible by the Runyon Fund grant."

Aid Council; Confess on Civil Rights; Theatre Arts Committee; Hollywood Independence Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions; Strike Strategy Committee for Hollywood Strikers; a member of the group aiding the "Hollywood 10," actors, writers and directors who were sentenced for contempt of Congress; signer of a statement by American progressives on the Moscow trials, and, according to the November, 1941, issue of Soviet Russia Today, author of a statement in support of the Soviet Union.

Still, Garfield says he failed to recognize a Red until late 1947 or 1948. He has been in Hollywood since 1938. Most of the "Hollywood 10" were confronted with Communist party cards when they appeared before the committee. Garfield apparently was looking the other way.

Our advance news (Dec. 17, 1950) that the Chief of Police (Romon) was leading the plot to overthrow Pres. Arias of Panama (confirmed last week) was delayed for over five months . . . "Your announcement tipped the mitt," reports The Source, "put everybody on guard and actually forestalled the overthrow, which explains why this thing broke five months later than planned. In short, Arias, the louse, kept his job five months longer because of You!"

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

During the half century plus that I have been on this earth many changes have taken place. It would take a weighty encyclopedia to enumerate them all. But you really can classify the whole business in three words: "More and Faster."

All man's ingenuity seems to be concentrated on MORE of everything—the word MORE includes BIGGER—and to enjoy that MORE with ever increasing speed.

Fortunately, science has had only limited success with one item, and I am inclined to thank God for it.

That one item is the human being.

More than two thousand years ago according to the Bible, man's life span was to be three score and ten years.

Now, with all the new medicines, all the wonderful achievements of chemistry, surgery, sanitation and the apothecary's craft we have finally reached an average life expectancy of somewhere around sixty-seven years.

In other words, with all our progress of centuries we are still three years short of what we are told in the ninetyeth Psalm.

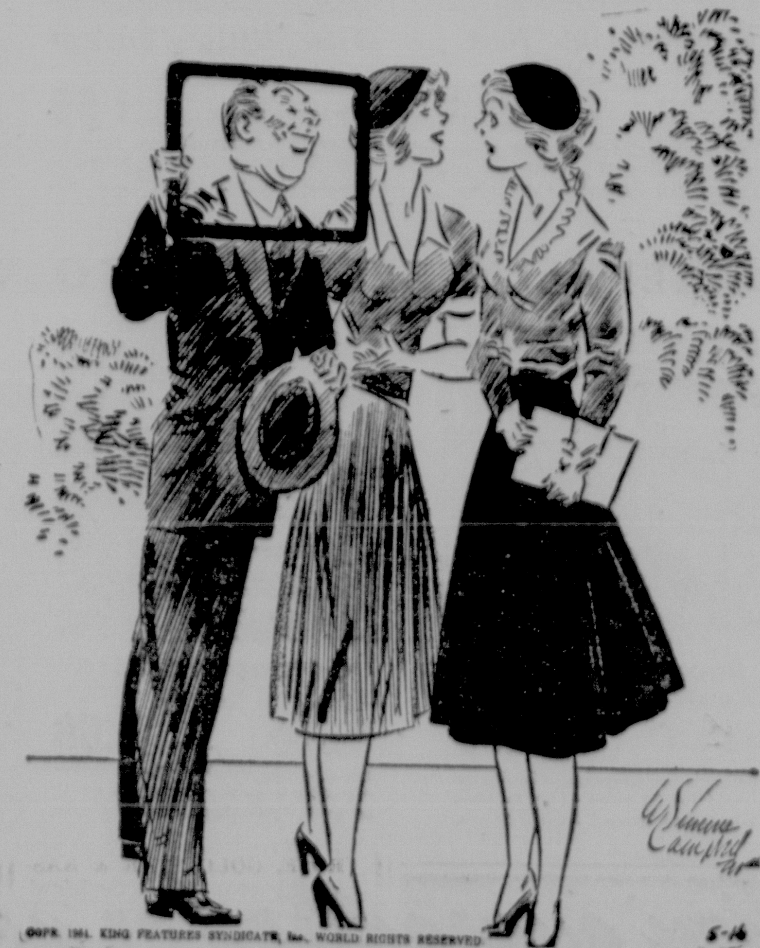

But then, it says in that same Psalm: "For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as watch in the night."

As we grow older we realize more and more the eternal truth of that verse.

Things that have happened years ago seem like yesterday. And when the events of today seem so terribly important, we begin to wonder what they will mean in a thousand years from now to those who will then be alive.

1,207 Take Advantage Of Mass X-Ray Program First Day

Free Exams To Continue Rest Of Week

First test of the free mass X-ray program being sponsored for all citizens of Monroe county 18 years old and up yesterday produced excellent results. A total of 1,207 persons were given free X-rays at four mobile X-ray stations. Free X-rays will be given through Saturday.

Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary of Monroe County Tuberculosis society which set up the detail of volunteers working with each unit, said final reports last night showed these X-ray station results:

Kunkletown 104, Brodheadsville school 476, Skytop 156 and Barrett school 471.

Most people expressed astonishment that the X-ray process took so little time and did not require those who appeared to disrobe. Competent staffs of clerical help recruited from commercial students at the high schools were accompanied by hostesses and others provided by the TB society.

The whole project is sponsored by Monroe County Medical society in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Health which supplies the two mobile units and technicians. The TB society set up the pre-X-ray program, is conducting all service at X-ray centers and will be responsible for all follow-up work.

Schedule of the two X-ray units, their technicians and volunteers from Monroe County Tuberculosis Society for the next three days follows:

69-Year-Old Tobyhanna Man Goes On Trial On Charge Involving Teen-Age Girl

Trial of a 69-year-old Tobyhanna man on a statutory rape charge involving a 13-year-old Coolbaugh township school girl opened here yesterday with 11 witnesses testifying, five for the Commonwealth and six for the defendant.

The defendant, Steve Smith, a resident of Tobyhanna for the past four years, is charged with statutory rape as a result of alleged intimacies with the girl at his home last February and early March.

In presenting the Commonwealth's case, District Attorney Detlef A. Hansen yesterday called Harold Quick, Tobyhanna; the 13-year-old girl, one of her school companions of the same age; Mrs. Frances Kubler, of Allentown, and another girl of 12 years for testimony.

Atty. James T. Kitson, counsel for Smith, drew testimony from William Wehrle, of Tobyhanna; Mrs. Bertha Dailey, a neighbor of Smith's at Tobyhanna; Willis Ensminger, of the Tobyhanna area; Dr. Frank E. Halstead, Stroudsburg physician; Vernon A. Keiper, Tobyhanna; Amos Smith, son of the defendant, and Smith himself.

Testimony of Wehrle, Smith, Dailey, Ensminger and Keiper upheld the defendant's reputation for chastity in the community. Several of the defense witnesses, Ensminger in particular, refuted statements of the minor girls who had testified for the Commonwealth and criticized their reputations for honesty and truthfulness.

Ensminger, at one point, answered "no" when Attorney Kitson asked him if he would believe the girl involved in the case when she is speaking under oath.

Dr. Halstead testified that he had examined the girl on or about April 4, and at that time, there were no indications that she had been harmed by a previous sexual attack.

He further stated his examination showed no signs of any previous sexual intercourse. He added that he had also examined the defendant.

Keiper appeared as a character witness for Smith, and Amos Smith the defendant's son, exhibited a floor plan of his father's house which was admitted as a defense exhibit and shown to the jury.

The defendant, when called to the witness box, denied any attacks or attempts at any time. He said the girl first came to his house in company with another girl on February 20, and at that time, they were selling seeds for a school project.

He told how he bought a quantity of seeds, but then let the girls keep the seeds after paying for them.

Her last visit, he declared, was on March 1 when she came alone to his house and asked to borrow $10 so she could visit a doctor. The defendant said he loaned her the money but required a receipt which the girl wrote on the back of a sheet torn from a kitchen calendar.

The calendar sheet receipt was produced and also admitted as evidence.

Schaller Pleads Guilty To Hit-Run Charge; Receives Six Month Jail Term, Fine

Paul H. Schaller, 32-year-old mechanic, of 114 N. Ninth St., pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was fined $1 and sent to jail for six months here yesterday in Monroe county court.

The defendant made his plea before President Judge Fred W. Davis and Associate Judges Theodore S. Metzgar and Homer A. Shupp less than 24 hours after the May term grand jury had returned a true bill against the Stroudsburg mechanic.

Atty James C. Scanlon, who represented Schaller, pointed out that no one contends that Schaller sped away from the scene.

The charge against Schaller followed an April 26 accident on Fox-town hill when James Ludwig, who lives on the hill, and three members of his family were injured when Schaller's car veered off the downhill lane and forced them against a guard rail.

Ludwig and his family were walking up the hill at the side of the road at the time of the accident, 11 p.m. on the April date. He and his wife, an infant son, and a five-year-old son were all taken to Monroe County General hospital.

Charles Ludwig, the five-year-old, was the most seriously hurt, and he is still a patient at the hospital.

Atty. James C. Scanlon, who represented Schaller, pointed out yesterday that no one "contends" the defendant sped away from the scene.

His only recollection of anything unusual at or near the scene was a scream he heard, Scanlon said. He even mentioned this to his wife when he reached his home after following a normal route and a normal rate of speed, the attorney continued.

The defendant went to bed, never realizing he had struck a human being, Scanlon asserted.

Noting that the Ludwig lad is still hospitalized, the attorney explained that Schaller has made daily inquiries at the hospital regarding the child's condition. Defendant himself has a wife and two children, he said.

When the plea was taken, District Attorney Detlef A. Hansen called Pfc. Alex G. Kern, of Stroudsburg State police, to the stand. Kern, who investigated the mishap, told the court how he and Pfc. Stephen Sabin, of the Stroudsburg detail, were called to the scene and how they later arrested Schaller at his home on N. Ninth St.

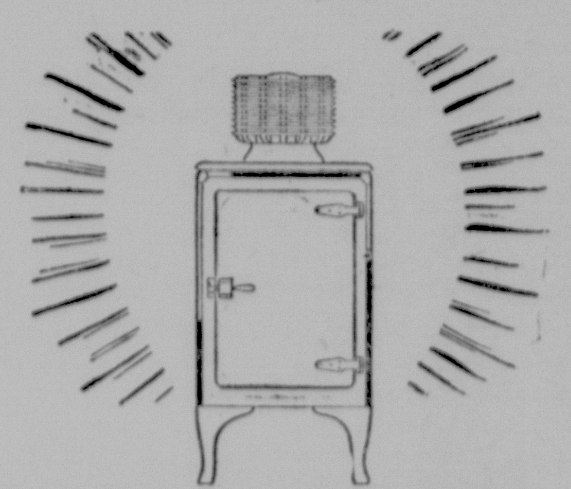

A passing motorist, who turned about and followed the Schaller car long enough to copy the license number, supplied police with the number and their early morning check of registration files identified Schaller as the owner.

Trooper Keane stated that the right front fender of Schaller's vehicle had two slight dents where the fender had apparently come into contact with members of the family and a dog. The animal was killed instantly.

Attorney Scanlon placed Jesse Haynes, 815 Scott St., Stroudsburg garage operator and auto dealer, on the stand. Haynes, who has employed Schaller for the past five years, testified as a character witness in the defendant's behalf.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Davis directed that Schaller pay the costs of prosecution as well as the $1 fine, and that he serve the six-month term in a county jail.

PETE LORENZ, PP&L Co. construction foreman is holding up a fat 12-inch brown trout he caught in Big creek in Monroe county with a Reddy Kilowatt emblem he transformed (lower left) into a spinner lure.

PP&L Worker Hooks Pocono Trout With Unique Lure

Pete Lorenz, Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. electrical construction foreman with headquarters at the company's Allentown service depot, recently turned up with one of the most fantastic fish tales of the season. After trying practically every normal fly and lure in his possession and without success, Pete brought the day's fishing at Big creek in the foothills of the Poconos to an electrifying close when he tried out a brand new lure of his own creation . . . and Reddy Kilowatt the symbol of electricity hooked a nice fat 12-inch brown trout.

It all began before the season when Pete was in the middle of a fly-and-lure-tying session. Common to true Isaak Walton enthusiasts he started dreaming of the perfect lure. Casting about for some brightly colored material, his eye caught upon a little red and gold pin on his working hat . . . a metal replica of Reddy Kilowatt and the trademark of the electric industry of which Pete is a part. Pete stripped the little pin of its clasp, then drilled tiny holes in the head and one of the feet of the figure. With the addition of a treble hook and a swivel and the bending of arms in opposite directions to assure a spinning action, the transformation of the red and gold Reddy Kilowatt figure from pin to fish lure was complete. Lorenz had gone through the better part of a cold, wet day and with no fish to show for his efforts. With a sudden shock of remembrance he brought out his electrifying lure. Mostly out of sheer desperation he tied on his little Reddy Kilowatt spinner. But it wasn't long thereafter, that Pete had a 12-inch brown trout lying in the bottom of his creel.

Packards are built for priceless folks....like yours!

When the folks you love are involved . . . you could justify the purchase of a Packard on the basis of superior safety alone. The fact is: you can't buy a safer car at any price!

And if you're obliged to be budget-conscious—that still needn't deprive your family of a Packard. Bear in mind that the solid, precision-built quality behind Packard safety has a dollars-and-cents payoff in many important ways. Consider, for example:

- Packard Thunderbolt engines give you more than trustworthy reliability, and safety-minded responsiveness that keeps you in the clear . . . They pay dollar dividends with: the efficiency of America's highest-compression eights—and the service-free simplicity of a design with up to 25% fewer working parts than you'll find in engines of comparable power!

- The famed Packard Limousine Ride gives you more than a matchless combination of gentle smoothness and firm, road-hugging safety . . . It pays dividends with: a "self-controlling" broad-beam suspension system that stays new for years—with no need for spring lubrication, no complicated shock-absorber maintenance.

- Packard's exclusive Ultramatic Drive gives you more than swift responsiveness, and complete control under all driving conditions . . . It pays dividends with: No gas-wasting slippage when cruising—and no service complications.

Those are just a few highlights of the mechanical-life story behind the human-life story of this new 1951 Packard. They help explain why, of all the Packards built—in the last 52 years—over 50% are still in service!

And they help prove that, even on a dollar basis, nothing short of a Packard is good enough for the priceless people in your life! Come in—drive this great performer!

Hall Closets Prove Useful, Convenient

While hall closets are provided in practically all modern homes, many of them are sadly lacking in the matter of convenience. In fact, few home owners realize that the usefulness of such a closet may be greatly increased by the addition of simple and comparatively inexpensive equipment.

For example, a rack with a metal lined trough at the bottom may be attached to the inside of the closet door, and here the family's stock of umbrellas may be stored without sacrificing valuable floor space. A metal lined, well-ventilated chest for overcoats and rubbers may also be built in the closet.

In a household where there are several children, a mitten or glove box is another convenience. Like the rubber chest, this should be well ventilated and divided into compartments, each labeled with the name of the owner.

The size of the coat closet is governed, of course, by the space available and by the general requirements of the family. The floor should be of a material that can be easily cleaned.

The latest idea is to line the coat closet with cedar so that it is unnecessary to move winter overcoats into storage when warm weather arrives.

Color Contrast Light Factor

The custom of painting the walls of one room in different colors—now being accepted more and more—is not always done from a purely aesthetic standpoint. The scientific consideration of color as the secondary source of light in a room is sometimes an important factor in the case.

As an example, a recent issue of the Real Estate and Building Management Digest pointed out that a painter may apply three tones of a certain color within one room. The brightest tone goes on the wall directly opposite the windows. On the walls at right angles to the windows, the medium tone is used, with the strongest tones of all applied alongside the windows.

If the outside glare is too strong, the same procedure may be applied in exact reverse to subdue it.

Ample Storage Space Necessary

There should be ample storage space in a home in order to adequately provide for the proper keeping of articles not in immediate use.

Bedroom or coat closets should be not less than 1 foot 10 inches in depth. Linen closets should be about 16 to 18 inches in depth.

While it is impossible to fix a rule for the amount of closet space that will be universally applicable, it is advisable to have at least one closet for each bedroom, a closet for linen, and one in which to hang hats and coats. Outergarments are sometimes damp; consequently, the coat closet should be near the entrance door so that water and mud are not spread through the dwelling.

Building Period Can Be Reduced

Elimination of interior decoration problems, including plastering and papering is assured if your home is finished with an all-wood interior.

Constructing the home entirely of lumber does away with delays due to plaster drying (as well as the mess that goes with any plastering operations) and avoids the introduction of a considerable quantity of water involved in the plastering of any wall. It also expedites completion of the structure.

Bargains In Old Houses Shouldn't Be Overlooked

While new homes are rising throughout the State, many house hunters are not overlooking the bargains today's real estate market affords in old houses—sturdy, substantial structures good for many years of serviceability. A bit of remodeling, fresh decoration inside and out is all that is needed, in many instances, to make these old structures into attractive and comfortable homes.

Tub Location Is Important

The location of the bathtub should be well considered when planning the bathroom. It is never wise to install a tub in front of a window for not only will dirt blow down into the tub from the window, which must necessarily be open at times, but such a location also makes bathing uncomfortable in winter. If there is a shower installed over the tub, the spray damages the window curtains.

A tub recessed between two closets saves space and is a most desirable arrangement. One closet may be used for linen and the other will be found a convenient place for storing cleaning supplies. Many steps are saved by having a supply of extra towels inside the bathroom, and since the bathroom porcelain and tiles need frequent cleaning, it is also convenient to have the necessary materials close at hand.

Asbestos Covers Ironing Boards

One of the latest household safety devices on the market is an asbestos ironing board cover, which reduces the danger of fire from overheated irons. Draperies of fire-proof asbestos also are now available for use particularly in such public places as hotels and clubs and so on. Asbestos, one of the most remarkable minerals known to man, is incombustible and practically indestructible. Among its many commercial uses is its combination with Portland cement to form asbestos cement building materials, which usually last the life of a building.

Asbestos also reduces wall cracks. Maintenance thereafter is no problem, either, with knotty pine or clear pine finished in a light modern treatment is easy to keep clean and doesn't require reducing every year or two.

Inspection Of Roofs Is Advised

Building experts, calling attention to damage done to thousands of roofs by the exceptionally severe winter, are advising that all roofs be inspected thoroughly and that necessary repairs and replacements be made promptly to prevent further harm.

A simple method of determining whether spring rains are likely to penetrate a roof and damage a building's interior is to examine the underside of the roof deck. If there are signs that water has leaked through the boards, the roof probably has been damaged and needs to be replaced.

Roofers explain that damage frequently occurred when snow slid down a roof and clogged the gutters. Succeeding slides piled up against the first one, creating a snow and ice barrier along the eaves. During a thaw, this barrier prevented proper drainage and water backed up under the shingles.

After seeping under the roofing, water penetrated the roof deck and into the sidewalls, cracking plaster, staining wallpaper and paint and causing other damage to the building and its contents.

Although repairs can sometimes be made to a new roof, it is seldom economical and effective to try to patch any roof which shows signs of weathering.

Water Softeners Reduce Corrosion

In many sections of the country the water supply contains elements that have a corrosive effect on plumbing.

In such cases, water softeners may be installed that will remove hard substances.

Living-Dining Room Trend In Small Houses

The modern trend toward combined living-dining rooms is especially adaptable to small homes and can be carried out in a number of ways.

A dining alcove, fitted and furnished like the living room, except at meal times. Furniture in harmony with that of the living room should be used in the alcove. Drapes, on a traverse, can be used on the opening of the alcove if the home owner decides it is desirable to have the rooms disconnected during meal time.

Combining the dining room and living room is an excellent space saver in small homes, as the space needed for the dining room alcove can be used to make the living room much larger. Owners of homes which have the disconnected rooms can combine them by removing the dividing wall.

Distinctive Knockers

A fastidious detail for the entrance of a Colonial or English house is a solid brass door knocker with the owner's name engraved on it. These knockers are available in several period styles and they're not expensive.

Keep Panes Puttied

Don't let the putty in your windows harden and fall out. Not only will there be danger of the glass breaking but air will be let in around the panes and the wood will rot.

New Uses Found For Mirrors

Mirrors have stepped out of their old-fashioned role as "looking glasses" and will play an increasingly important role in the hundreds of thousands of new homes to be built during the next few years.

In small homes, judicious use of mirrors can do much to give an impression of greater spaciousness. A mirror placed at one end of the living room, for example, will make the room appear much larger because the vision is not stopped by a wall. Also mirrors are expected to be used much more over fireplaces for decorative effect, builders say.

Closet doors in bedrooms of new homes will use full-length mirrors or, where budgets permit, closets can be designed with two swinging doors and space in between, all with full length mirrors to give both front and back vision. Full-length mirrors also will be used more in bathrooms, in addition to the conventional smaller utility

Here's Where the Pounds Pay Off

FIRST thing that people notice when they take over a Buick is the sure-footed stance this fine automobile has on the road.

You head into a curve and hold firm and true. You travel a turnpike without sway or wander.

While your wheels may dance when you hit a stretch of washboard gravel—your car holds its level course.

A lot of things account for this beautifully poised performance, but it starts with stalwart structure and ample weight—plenty of pounds where pounds are needed.

Please don't get us wrong. This isn't "deadweight." Though a Buick like the one pictured here tips the scales at more than two tons, it's as nimble as an antelope at play.

It has a generous hoodful of valve-in-head Fireball power—packing a powerful punch of velvet velocity.

It comes with the smooth magic of Dynaflo Drive®—a lightness of steering that's gently responsive to a lady's hand—a front-end geometry that's pure genius—the finest brakes ever put on a Buick.

And every wheel rides on shock-eating coil springs that are carefree and trouble-free for the life of your car.

You'll also find—by a few moments of simple arithmetic—that the pounds in this bounteous beauty pay off in another way. On a cents-per-pound basis, it will cost less to buy than anything else near its weight and power and size.

Why not visit us real soon—like the first thing tomorrow—and let us show you why you and your budget will both be happy with this Buick?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The William Fredericks To Mark Golden Wedding Thurs.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick, of 57 Brown St., East Stroudsburg, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday, May 17, at their home. Although no formal celebration is planned, many of their ten children and 17 grandchildren will call to pay their respect during the day. The Fredericks also have one great grandchild.

Mr. Frederick was born in the Stroudsburgs and Mrs. Frederick, the former Roselle Bruch, was born in Bethlehem, but moved to Stroudsburg when she was nine years old.

They were married in the parsonage of Grace Lutheran church by Rev. William Heinz. Their twelve children, ten of whom are living, were all born here and were graduated from East Stroudsburg High School.

After feeding and caring for a family of that size with always 13 or 15 to sit down to each meal, Mrs. Frederick says she had to learn to cook all over again when the last child left. "At first I cooked so much food that we had to have it warmed over all the rest of the week," she said.

Now they're used to being by themselves but always welcome the children and their families home. Two of the daughters will be unable to make their anniversary. Miss Berenice Frederick whose work as a home missionary in York will keep her there was home recently though to spend the day, and Mrs. Alex Mackenzie, of Boston, Mass., is planning to come down for a visit on Memorial day.

The others all will be home though; Mrs. Norman Hauser, Mrs. Harry Walton, Mrs. Charles Arnt, Mrs. Clarence Pooley, Mrs. Thomas Gardner, Mrs. Kenneth Hartman, Neal Frederick and Denton Frederick.

Mr. Frederick, who will be 73 in August, is employed at the Hughes Printing Co. Mrs. Frederick will be 70 the last of July, and they are both looking forward to their fiftieth anniversary, which will also mark the birthday of a daughter, Mrs. Charles Arnt.

The gifts were presented in a wash basket, gaily decorated. Guests included: Miss Thelma Acker's mother, Mrs. Roger Acker; Mrs. Louise Merola, Mrs. Guy Dean, Mrs. Peter Wyckoff, Mrs. Thomas Reinhart, Mrs. Elmer Reinhart, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Marion Douma, Mrs. Wenzle and Miss Gloria Shafer.

Pageant Of Months Depicted In Ballet

Pageant of the passing year formed the theme of the ballet recital given Friday night in Stroudsburg High school auditorium by the 90 pupils in the Thelma J. Acker school of the ballet.

The auditorium was filled to capacity for the performance, which is the last of eight annual recitals, since Miss Acker is being married this summer. She was presented with a gift of appreciation from the pupils and their mothers after a surprise solo dance in which one of her pupils Mary Frances Frankenhof, who had not been told of the surprise, mirrored her every movement.

Patricia Ace ushered in 1951 with a solo number and each month was ushered in by a solo and group numbers.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, one thing's for sure, the East Stroudsburg women are having their innings as several organizations connected with the General hospital are making that their meeting place.

However, if you want to see their hackles rise, just let a member from Stroudsburg tell them that it's hard to get all the way over town.

Having made that trip millions of times to meetings in Stroudsburg, the East Stroudsburgers are anything but sympathetic, and you can't blame them, really.

May be another story next winter, but right now everybody's grateful for anything that gives them an excuse for being out-of-doors just a few minutes longer.

Anna Logans Hear Of Past Successes, Future Project

Reports of past successful ventures and future projects were climaxed by the social hour for the Anna Logan society of the General hospital at the meeting Monday night at the YMCA with Mrs. Robert Miller presiding. Mrs. Robert Schell's team was in charge of refreshments.

The successful dedication dance was reported by Mrs. John Stanford highlighting the grand opening of the hospital. Held at the Penn-Stroud ballroom, the dance featured the music of Lew Stanley's band, and a floor show which included a tap dance by Shirley Schwartz; vocal numbers by Ellen Coleman, and a piano and trumpet duet by John and Harold Eaton. Dr. M. J. Leitner was master of ceremonies and Dr. Harold Flagler assisted him in the Paul Jones which served to make everyone acquainted.

A novelty stethoscope dance found Mrs. J. L. Cohen crowned queen of the dance, Mrs. Stanford reported, and also told of the decorations which featured an Anna Logan emblem. With Mrs. Neil Josephson aiding Mrs. Stanford, the receiving line and general committee consisted of Mrs. William Levering, Mrs. Marshall Metzgar, Mrs. Nelson T. Beers, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. H. C. Cryder, Mrs. Arthur Stackhouse, Miss Mary Davey, Mrs. Paul Shiffer, Mrs. M. J. Leitner and Mrs. Howard Flagler Jr.

No complete financial report of the Dedication Program booklet, compiled by the Anna Logan Society and the Barrett auxiliary was available, since the bookkeeping has not been completed. It was reported that 2500 copies of the book had been donated to the hospital by the groups and the proceeds in its entirety will go toward the general upkeep of the hospital.

Mrs. Miller was chairman with Mrs. Raymond Price of the Barrett auxiliary as co-chairman. Anyone desiring a copy of this program may secure one as long as they are available by mailing a card to the committee.

For its future project, the Anna Logan society has offered to take the nurses' home. A new dinette suite and venetian blinds have already been placed in the newly renovated kitchen, and further improvements are planned. Proceeds from the dance will be used toward this project, and anyone wishing to contribute money or help has been asked to fill out a blank which can be secured by letter from Mrs. Miller at 906 Main St., Stroudsburg. Mrs. Horace Butler, Mrs. William Levering and Mrs. Paul Shiffer were appointed as committee in charge of the nurses' home.

The next meeting of Anna Logan will be at the Stroudsburg playgrounds with a covered dish supper at 6 p.m. for members and their guests on June 11. Miss Charlotte Shupp and her team will be hostesses. It will mark the final meeting until fall when meetings will be resumed in the room provided for all the auxiliaries at the new hospital.

Mrs. Elmer Barrier was welcomed back after a brief absence and Mrs. Anthony Harlacher was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Russell Nyce chairman of volunteers from Anna Logan for the new hospital shop, read a list of the members who have signed up as workers.

A letter of thanks was read from Harry Smith in appreciation of the volunteer workers who served during the refreshment hour on the opening days of the hospital. Mrs. Nelson Beers, chairman, was assisted by the directors of Anna Logan, Mrs. Merle C. Ostrom, Mrs. Harold Pond Jr., Mrs. Frank Stackhouse, and members.

Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps

MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCahill, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.

"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" IS SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

Armed Forces Day...EVERY DAY

This week the Nation pays special honor to the men and women of our Armed Services...and Bell Telephone joins in the special tribute.

But in a broader sense, it's our privilege to serve these men and women every day...from the moment they arrive in camp for basic training.

That's why we're doing our utmost to provide plenty of telephone service in camps and hospitals throughout Pennsylvania. In addition to the many telephone circuits needed for rapid expansion and day-to-day operation, we're adding scores of telephones for those important calls back to Mother and Dad...and we're installing more and more special telephone equipment in hospitals so that wounded men can make calls right from their bedside.

All this takes a lot of telephone equipment. But you know...as we do...how greatly these men treasure that telephone link with home, and you'll agree that this job deserves the best we have, regardless of costs or equipment shortages.

Chestnuthill Takes Over Southern Division Lead

Five Markers In Tenth Defeat Polk

Kresgeville — Chestnuthill High school took over the number one spot in the southern division of the Monroe County Baseball league yesterday afternoon, with a 14-9 victory over Polk, in a game that found the Chestnuthill club coming up with five runs in the top of the tenth inning.

Chestnuthill is now carrying a record of three wins and one loss, while Polk has won two of its three games thus far. If Polk should gain its second win of the season over Pocono on Friday, Polk and Chestnuthill will tie for the number one spot.

The lone Polk loss was inflicted by Chestnuthill and Polk returned the compliment, earlier in the season against Hershey's victory.

Chestnuthill's hero yesterday was youthful Bob Burkett, who moved in from left field to the pitching mound after Starter John Bonser tired in the seventh. Polk had already scored a run in that frame and the bases were loaded with nobody out. However, Burkett set the home club down in order, with no further scoring.

The visiting club took a 5-0 lead after two times at bat, but Polk tallied eight times in the second. Chestnuthill scored four in the fifth to lead by one, but Polk knotted the count once again in the seventh and ordinarily the last inning.

All was quiet until the tenth, when a double by Gerald Meixsell and a single by Collins Brong sparked a five-run rally that won the game.

Washington (AP)—Detroit mauled four Washington pitchers for 14 hits and climbed into a second place with a 12-4 victory behind Hal Newhouse's 9-hit pitching last night.

Vic Wertz and Pat Mullin led the Tigers' assault with three hits each, while Steve Soucek slammed an eighth inning homer off Joe Haynes after Wertz walked.

Lead: Sam Mele belted the Senators into a 2-0 lead in the first inning with a home run after Eddie Yost doubled, but Detroit got two runs in the second off Sandy Consuegra on a walk and four singles.

The defeat was the first suffered by Washington's trio of Cuban pitchers.

Pirates Run Over Giants

Pittsburgh (AP)—George Strickland's bat hammered out two homers and a single, drove in five runs and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 victory over the New York Giants before a crowd of 25,338 last night at Forbes Field.

Second Win: Bill Werle, getting his first chance to start when other probable hurlers reported sore arms, gave up only two hits in the first five scoreless innings. Then the Giants landed on him like an avalanche, slapping him for five hits, including Bobby Thomson's homer and Rafael Noble's double.

It was Werle's second win against no losses though he was chargeable with all three Giant runs.

Seniors Win Honors In Bangor High Field Day

Bangor — Seniors dominated the annual Bangor High Field day here at Memorial Park yesterday, by scoring a total of 40 points in the track and field events. The Juniors came up with eight points, the Freshmen, seven, and the Sophomores six.

Charley Stocker got the seniors off to a flying start by winning the 100 yard dash, in 11.8 seconds. Douglas Honey, junior, and Duane Krauss, freshman, finished in a tie for second place. The final result of the 220 yard event was the same, only Honey was second and Krauss third. The 220 time was 27.7 seconds.

Pitchers Shine As Reds Nip Braves, 1-0

Cincinnati (AP) — Ewell Blackwell last night allowed only one hit in blanking the Boston Braves 1 to 0 as he and Vern Bickford hooked up in one of the tightest pitching duels in many years. Bickford allowed only two hits.

The blow that killed off Bickford was a home run by catcher John Pramesa in the seventh inning. The only other Cincinnati hit was a double by Connie Ryan after Bickford had hurled five and one-third innings of hitless ball.

Blackwell didn't allow a hit until the fifth and when Bob Elliott doubled to wreck "Blackie's" hopes for the second no-hitter of his career.

Bickford pitched a no-hitter last season so he, too, was shooting for a second no-hit game.

Records: A quick search of the records indicated the game was the tightest pitching battle in the National League since Fred Toney of the Reds and Jim Vaughn of the Chicago Cubs hooked up in a masterful battle on May 2, 1917.

In that game, Toney pitched a ten-inning no-hitter and the only two hits off Vaughn came in the 10th.

Pramesa's wallop last night came after two were out in the seventh. He caught hold of a Bickford fast ball and laced it over the left field wall.

That was the only time all night that any hitter ever got as far as third base.

Line Material Dumps Eagles

Line Material overcame a first inning deficit of four runs in the first inning last night to defeat the Eagles, 10-9, in a Monroe County Softball League contest played at Stroudsburg Playground.

The second game on last night's agenda found Worthington Mower and Patterson-Kelley playing to a 10-10 tie at East Stroudsburg Junior High. The game was called after seven innings because of darkness. Jim "Bunky" Smith homered with two on for Patterson-Kelley, behind the pitching of George Kirby and Ken Petry. Marcus Decker did the hurling for Worthington Mower.

Tonight's schedule will find Kulp's Foundry and Line Material at Stroudsburg Playground, while Tucker's Chevrolet and Union Printers clash at East Stroudsburg Junior High. Both games being called at 6:30.

Bangor Takes Measure Of Fountain Hill

Fountain Hill — Bangor High school snapped a three-game losing streak in the Lehigh-Northampton League here yesterday, with an 8-4 victory over Fountain Hill, on the losing team's home field. Bangor now is sporting a league record of three wins and the same number of setbacks.

Wayne Taylor opened on the hill for the Slayers yesterday, but a two-run rally by Fountain Hill in the third chased the starter in favor of Bob Egbert, who went on to become the winning hurler.

Early Lead: Bangor took a 1-0 edge in the first inning, then added singletons in the second, third and seventh frames. The charges of Coach Dave Thomas put the game on ice with a four-run outburst in the eighth.

Fountain Hill did all its scoring in three frames, one each in the second and ninth and two in the third round.

Harry Callie, Asa Pysher and Vince DeFranco each collected two safeties in the winning total of ten base hits.

Chicago (AP) — The White Sox last night traded left-hander Bob Cain to the Detroit Tigers for pitcher Saul Rogovin, a 205 pound right-hander. There was no cash involved in the exchange.

The 26-year-old Cain compiled a 9-12 record for the Sox in 1950 and had a 1-2 mark for this season.

Last Year: Rogovin, 27, appeared in 11 games for Detroit last year and had a 2-1 record. He has a 1-1 mark so far this campaign.

Rogovin is to report to the Sox in Boston tomorrow.

West Bangor Inflicts Initial Loss Of Campaign On Apollos

Portland—West Bangor's big seven-run third inning spelled defeat for the Portland Apollos here last night, 8-6, in a Blue Mountain league baseball encounter. It was the first loss in three starts for the Apollos, while the win was the second in the same number of starts for West Bangor, regular season and playoff champ of the circuit last year.

Randal Ott and Uilo Uliana were hooked up in a scoreless duel until the roof fell in on the Portland chucker in the third, as the visiting contingent broke the first twilight game of the season wide open with a flurry of seven runs.

Three Tallies: However, Portland came back with three in its half of the same inning, and shaved the deficit to two runs in the fifth, with a two run rally. West Bangor protected its two-run lead as each club tallied singletons in the sixth and final frame. The game was limited to six innings because of darkness.

Uliana needed help from Charley Veronna in the late innings, but West Bangor improved its standing in the circuit, despite a rally which enabled Portland to score three runs in the last two frames.

Grand Jury Recommends Jail Repairs

Monroe county's May term grand jury yesterday recommended repairs to the main hall flooring in the county jail building, installation of a new refrigerator for the jail kitchen, and painting in the cell area.

The recommendations came in a portion of their report after inspecting county property, and were presented to the court before President Judge Fred W. Davis and Associate Judges Homer A. Shupp and Theodore S. Metzger.

In accepting the jurors' report, Judge Davis advised the panel of 14 women and five men that their recommendations will be certified to the county commissioners for their attention.

In addition to inspecting the jail, the grand jurors also went to the county home at Kellersville, to the headquarters for the Childrens Aid society and that of the Monroe County Tuberculosis society, as well as the court house proper.

At the county home, the jurors urged that a registered nurse be in attendance at all times, and that more attention be given the mens quarters in respect to cleanliness and sanitation.

Repairs to the porch and general painting were recommended for the building occupied by Childrens Aid society and the Tuberculosis society at 617 Sarah St.

At the court house, the jurors singled out a rain-damaged section of the law library ceiling and, in their report, suggested that this repair also be made.

Townships Stand To Gain In State Road Allocations Under House Legislation

Monroe county's second class townships which have more road mileage than boroughs would gain in State highway fund allocations for road purposes under a bill which won approval of the House Highways committee yesterday.

The measure changes method of allocating funds to townships, towns, boroughs and cities from a basis of 50 per cent for mileage and 50 per cent for population.

New basis is 60 per cent for mileage and 40 per cent for population. Thus townships which have more mileage gain an advantage under the new computing basis over the more heavily populated regions.

The previous legislation on road improvement funds set aside $5,000,000 for the 50-50 distribution plan. New legislation sets up $7,200,000 for mileage allocation on the 60 per cent basis and $4,800,000 for the 40 per cent population distribution.

The overall increase of road improvement appropriations ranges from $10,000,000 in the old measure to $12,000,000 in the proposed new bill.

Money is provided by the State motor fund from revenues collected from auto license fees and motor fuel taxes.

The measure will now go before the House for action.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one or two key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Schools Stage Pioneer Day Games Today

The pupils of the Morey and Ramsey school buildings will hold what is known as a "Pioneer" play day program on the playground in the rear of the Morey building starting at 1:30 this afternoon. This is not a May day program, rather a series of games, Roger Dunning, supervisor of elementary education, stated last night. Parents are invited to attend.

According to Mr. Dunning there will be a series of 22 games which will be staged in 22-foot circles with four different games in action at one time. The pupils of both schools will be mixed for the games.

A total of 525 young people will take part in the program, which will be in charge of Miss Kathryn Pontius, of the physical education department of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College with 44 student teachers assisting.

The whole affair promises to be colorful as the children will be attired in cowboy and cowgirl outfits with their brilliant neckerchiefs, but there will be no guns, it was pointed out.

Each child participating will receive a favor and refreshments of chocolate and milk.
